

Dormitory Continues Petition

Council to Submit Girls' Suggestions To President

• IN AN EFFORT to settle the three weeks' fight for optional meals the Strong Hall Council will meet tonight prior to a conference with President Cloyd H. Marvin later this week. Headed by Maria Sjolseth, president, the Council composed of Cam Lundberg, Mary Bagby, Joan Hyatt and Emily Clepper, will compile a list of constructive criticisms which President Marvin requested each girl submit in his attempt to pacify the girls.

At an open forum held last Tuesday the dorm girls discussed their grievances with Mrs. Patterson, housemother. The Council related the results of their meetings with Miss Kirkbride, director of Personnel Guidance; Mrs. Davies, manager of the Faculty Club, and Miss Sedgwick, administrative secretary, and their individual talks with President Marvin.

Each resident of Strong Hall was sent a letter from Miss Kirkbride. She made the following recommendations which have the approval of the administration:

1. Beginning December 1, 1944, all patrons of the Faculty Club House will pay 35c for breakfast; 65c for dinner. Nothing will be served a la carte.

2. Breakfast will be served at the dining hall from 7:30 to 9:15 effective Monday, November 27.

3. Staughton Hall girls who desire meals at the Faculty Club House will be put on a monthly basis as of December 1, 1944. They will no longer have the "option meal" privilege, but since the residents of Staughton Hall are employed girls, it will not be compulsory for them to eat at the Faculty Club House.

4. Each Strong Hall girl may have five guests a month at the dining hall, but no guests will be allowed before 6 o'clock.

Each resident of Strong Hall will continue to eat at the Faculty Club House. Any girl who is unwilling to conform to this plan has the privilege of coming to my office to make arrangements to leave the dormitory.

Following the editorial which appeared in last week's Hatchet, Mrs. Davies sent in her resignation, effective December 31, to President Marvin but as yet no action has been taken on it.

Frosh Class Meets

• FRESHMAN class will meet tomorrow at 1 p.m. in Gov. 101, announced Gene Spears, president. Chairmen of the various committees will be announced, and arrangements will be made to have group pictures made for the Cherry Tree. Also future plans will be discussed.

Loving Cups Given In Cherry Tree Subscription Drive

• KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA and Sigma Chi, winners of the Cherry Tree subscription drive, were awarded silver loving cups at the Buff 'n' Blue last Friday night by Dot Snyder, business manager. Kappa sold 62 subscriptions and Sigma Chi 32 subscriptions, with Delta Zeta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon runners-up.

Group pictures will be made of freshmen and sophomores for the Cherry Tree. All freshmen will meet Thursday at 12 p.m. and sophomores at 12:30 p.m. on the steps of government.

Margaret Lynn, editor, announced that 130 more individual pictures were taken this year than last, but this year's sale has not yet equalled last year's number of sales. Contracts for page space must be in by Friday.

Betsy Barrow, activities editor, urged that all seniors send their activities write-up to her immediately at 417 Raymond St., Chevy Chase, Md.

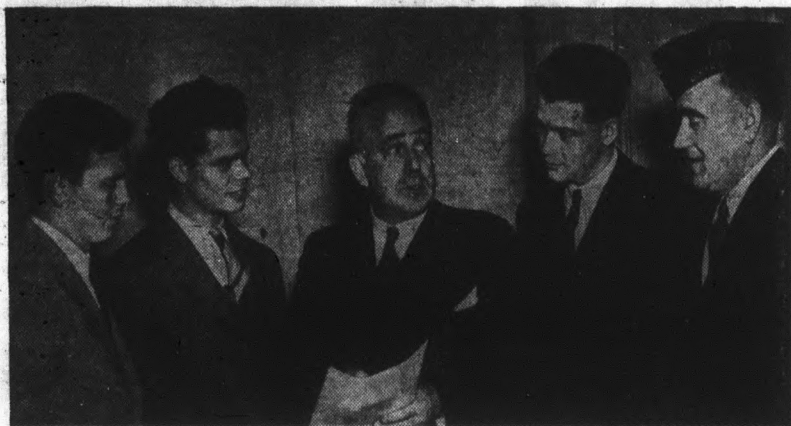

Parent-Teachers Meet

• EIGHTH ANNUAL Parent-Teacher Institute at the University will be held today and tomorrow, 10:30 to 1 p.m., in Room 102, Hall of Government.

"Education for Peace" will be the theme of the program planned by Dr. James Harold Fox, dean of School of Education, and Mrs. Frank Borden, D. C. Parent-Teacher Congress. Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin and Dean William Carl Reudiger will speak at the formal opening.

Veterans Group Will Celebrate First Anniversary This Week

Annual Debate Contest Begins December 8, 9

• TWO HUNDRED high school students are expected to participate in the University's Twelfth Annual High School Conference and Debate League, which will be held in the Hall of Government on December 8 and 9. Each high school may send from 1 to 15 delegates, all of whom should be prepared to participate.

Under the direction of W. Hayes Yeager, executive officer of the Speech Department, the conference will get under way on Friday morning. Following election of officers, Dr. Robert W. Bolwell, professor of American literature, will give the welcoming address.

Representative Jennings Randolph of West Virginia and Dr. Walter C. Wells, executive secretary of the American Association of Junior Colleges, will begin the debate on the subject of the conference: "Should the legal voting age be reduced to 18 years?" Saturday's debate will begin at 9:15 a.m.

Friday evening the Conference Committee on Resolutions will meet and draw up resolutions on the subject of the conference. The resolutions will be submitted to the conference Saturday morning for legislative debate by members of the conference.

There will be a buffet luncheon at 12:15 in Government 101, followed by an address, "The Far East and World Organization," by Dr. William C. Johnston, Dean of the School of Government.

Big Sisters Seek Bandage Rollers In Monday's Meeting

• BIG SISTERS will have a meeting Monday, December 11, at 12 noon in the living room of Strong Hall to give all students an opportunity to register for bandage rolling which will begin at the Walsh House, 2020 Massachusetts Avenue, N. W., December 14 and 15 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Prospective bandage rollers must wear the regulation white headgear and wash dress which each individual will furnish. In addition the students cannot wear jewelry or fingernail polish while rolling the gauze squares.

Supervision will be by the regular Red Cross workers, but Bertie Stamm and Polly Peterson will keep records of the number of hours that each student rolls. When a student has rolled for 20 hours, she is entitled to wear the Red Cross emblem.

• THIS WEEK MARKS the first anniversary of the small group of men who met in October 1943 to organize the Veterans Club, the initial campus Veterans' Club of the United States.

Of the original eight who were the first veterans to enter the University under the government program for the Rehabilitation of disabled soldiers, sailors and marines, six remain in school. They are Ben Noble, Elmo Keel, Barry Harrison, Anthony Mazelkas, Douglas Coon, and Joe Holtzman.

The Veterans, bound by common ties of their past experiences and faced with similar problems, organized a club, in which they felt they could achieve their common aims.

Until last June their membership consisted of veterans under the Rehabilitation program. With the passing of the G. I. Bill of Rights the group decided to broaden their scope and allow any veteran to become a member.

The club has at times been mentioned as being affiliated with other national veterans' organizations, but as yet is an unaffiliated campus group.

Membership now includes any man or woman who has been honorably discharged from the armed forces in the U. S. or her Allies, and who is now attending the University. With this impetus the membership has zoomed to approximately 75 men and 3 women.

Readjustment to civilian life, re-adaptation to classroom and text books after several years' separation, graduation from the University in due time, and ultimately the taking of their rightful place as useful American citizens to work for a better America and a more livable world are their primary aims.

President Cloyd H. Marvin presented a club house, 722-22nd Street, to the group and it is open daily to 10 p. m. The club house is used as a place of relaxation between classes, for study, and for cooking facilities. Informal parties are held on Saturday nights. Two veterans living there are the caretakers.

In addition to participating in all campus activities to keep alive the "old school spirit," the vets have won four of five intra-mural football games this year, have planned a basketball team for the coming season, have organized a political party, and are giving a dance.

With permission of President Marvin, the Vets will sponsor a monthly forum to be held in Lisner Auditorium. This forum will feature outstanding speakers on present day controversies and post-war problems.

Director Resigns

• MRS. EDITH Woodson, associate in the Physical Education Department, has resigned her position as assistant Women's Activities Advisor to return to a full-time position in the Physical Education Department.

Drama Tickets Put on Sale At Box Office

• TICKETS FOR the second major Cue and Curtain production of the current season, "Night Must Fall," will go on sale tomorrow, December 6, in the Lisner Auditorium box office, according to Floyd L. Sparks, director of the University drama group.

The box office will be open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. each school day. Mr. Sparks urged that all season subscription holders mail or bring in person their season tickets in order that they may be accommodated before all seats are sold.

"Night Must Fall" which opens in the auditorium on Friday, December 15, is a psychological mystery drama. It was originally written for stage presentation and was later used as a motion picture. As a motion picture it was an Academy Award winner.

It is the story of a murderer who is always acting for his own amusement. Every moment that he is awake is spent in portraying a character the opposite of his true self. It is not until the very last few minutes of the last scene that the killer gives himself away.

Following closely on the heels of "Night Must Fall" are the Workshop Plays which are to be given on December 17, at Recreation Hall. Three stage plays and one radio play will be directed by University students. "Shall We Join the Ladies" will be directed by Maybelle Hughes and "The More the Merrier" by Larry Strickland. Directors Emma Massa and Harriet Hurlish have not announced the titles of their plays.

COGS Set Points On WarWork

Club Requires 35 Point Goal For All Members

• NEW POINT system set up by the board of the Collegiate Organization for General Service specifies that membership in the organization may be attained by earning 35 points this semester for work in any of the units. Ten of these points must be earned outside the major field of interest.

Membership may be gained this semester by earning only 35 points since the point system was put into effect so late in the year. The requirement for membership next semester will be that 100 points be earned.

For work in the Alumni Office, social service, and Student Nurses work, three points per hour are credited. Two points per hour are given for bandage rolling, entertainment for servicemen, publicity, and participation in Stationery Night.

Blood donors receive 30 points. Volunteers who attend dances for servicemen at Forest Glen, Fort Belvoir, the YWCA, or on campus under COGS' sponsorship receive five points per dance. Knitters receive ten points per sweater and five points for any other garment.

Work in special drives such as the Paper Salvage Drive may count ten points maximum and one point minimum, to be determined by Victory Service Drive's Chairman Anne Peterson. One point is chalked up by attendance at each general meeting of the organization.

Sponsors for the above projects or board members directing the activity are: Helen Zott, alumni office; Gerry Locke, social service; Pat Perry, Student Nurses; Big Sisters and Pan Hel, bandage rolling; Cue and Curtain, entertainment; Kappa Delta, publicity; Delta Zeta, Stationery Night.

WAA, International Students Club, and Kappa Kappa Gamma, blood donors; Robin Metz, dances; Chi Omega, Forest Glen; Pan Hel, Fort Belvoir dances; Paper Salvage Drive, Alpha Delta Pi.

Members of the COGS board are Virginia Nalls, chairman; Gerry Locke, Anne Peterson, Dorothy Egging and Robin Metz.

Meeting Tonight

• COGS GENERAL meeting will be held tonight at 7:30 on the second floor of Columbian House. Stationery Night is at 8:00 after the meeting and all members are invited to remain and participate in writing letters to former University students now in the service.

Reconversion

• THURSDAY WILL MARK the third year of our active participation in this war. Three years of killing, slaughtering, hate and bloodshed. Yet it seems like only yesterday that we were sitting here in this very same HATCHET office listening to the Redskin game and waiting for the Board of Editors to return from the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association Convention in New Jersey.

Here, just as all over the world, the place was in a turmoil. Amid ringing phones, shouts, hasty interviews and an all-night session we tried to tell the student body what was happening and how it would affect them.

On Monday, President Marvin called an all-University assembly in the gym and dedicated the University, its faculties, its student body, and its efforts toward the successful completion of the war.

In the past three years much has been accomplished. While other schools have been closing their doors and giving up, we have undergone an orderly process of retrenchment that has meant the preservation of most of the forms of educational existence. Courses not directly related to the war effort have been dropped; faculty and students have left to put on uniforms; most of Building C has been turned over to NDRC, and in every conceivable way we have strived to be of service to the Nation.

But for all these services and efforts, probably our greatest contribution to date has been the foresight and planning that developed the Veterans Club and the Rehabilitation program here at the University.

While the rest of the country talks of reconversion and post-war planning, while important men in important places are working with pencils and paper formulating hopes and plans, we here at this Institution are actively engaged in actual reconversion. We are re-converting men.

From an humble beginning of eight men, the Veterans Club today has almost one hundred members. Discharged veterans from all over these United States are attending our school this year, including three ex-servicewomen.

Ours has become a great responsibility. We are engaged in changing men's lives, in patterning the course of their futures, in helping them cast aside the mental and physical barriers that might make them stumble, and in offering them a helping hand in their readjustment back to normal, everyday civilian life.

Though the job is important and the responsibility a heavy one, the method is simple. So long as everyone remembers that these men and women want to be treated just as everyone else, that they prefer anonymity, and that they shouldn't be pointed out as "different," but accepted as people who have done their portions of a job and have returned to take up where they left off, the solution will be simple and sure.

Nice Going

• FOR A GOOD MANY years, on and off, we've been going to the Buff 'n Blue's and having a pretty good time. The dancing, cokes, and setting have invariably remained unchanged and we've always looked forward to the floor show as the "piece-de-resistance" of the evening.

Last Friday night, we were pleasantly surprised, as the student talent was revealed. Instead of the audience's usual attitude of "I dare you to entertain me," the pleasure seekers were most appreciative. As in the days of Vinnie D'Angellis, tables and places were reserved in advance. And the floor show was terrific. A wide variety of entertainment has graced the floor of the "Dry Nite Club," ranging from the ridiculous to the palatable, but Friday night's efforts were the best we've seen in years.

Special commendation must be offered Mary Jane Whittlesey and Joe Vivari, the co-directors for an excellent, well-planned and thoroughly enjoyable evening.

CAMPUS CARAVAN

DAMES

I'm sure I never want to see
Another dame double-cross me.
A girl whose cheek is gently pressed
Against some monkey's hairy chest —
A girl who looks at me all day
And wonders when I'll get my pay —
A girl who may in autumn wear
A corsage of dandruff in her hair —
Upon whose palm my dough has lain —
Who suffers water on the brain —
Poems are made by fools like me,
But only Dames make suckers. See?
— with apologies to Joyce Kilmer

LOGIC

A girl is a maid.
A maid is a servant.
A servant is a serf.
A serf is a vessel.
A vessel is a yacht.
Yachts are expensive things.
What do you think girls are?

If you have found no humor in preceding jokes and gags, please have respect for the following, and for their age. From "The American University Courier" of American University, Washington, D. C.:

He: "No other woman ever takes another woman's advice about frocks."
She: "Naturally. You don't ask the enemy how to win the war."

FASHION NOTE

A serious wartime problem the girls are facing is selecting gowns that will look well with either a soldier or a sailor.

A two star general, returning to camp one evening, couldn't produce his identification as necessary. The rookie on guard, unimpressed, refused to let him pass through the gates. Finally, the exasperated general bent forward, pointed to the stars on his shoulders, and bellowed: "Do you know what these mean?"
"Sure," popped the rookie, "you got two sons in the service."

Election note: Old Lady (to a little boy smoking cigarettes): You'd better stop that, otherwise you will never become President.

Little Boy: Aw, that's all right, lady. I'm a Republican anyhow.

Letters to the Editor

France

11 November 1944

In today's mail—this being one of the days I received some mail—there was a copy of the October 24th issue of The Hatchet, forwarded by a friend who is still enrolled in the University.

It didn't take me long to find out why my friend had thought I would be interested in that particular issue. The right-hand lead story fairly reached out and smacked me in the eye.

May I extend mostly hearty congratulations to both this and last year's staff on the "Pacemaker" rating. The very great satisfaction which the staff which earned it must have felt is only a little more pronounced than that which was felt by all the past staff members, including myself, when we also learned of the award.

Having written some fair news stories and some very bad editorials during my four years with the paper, I am in a position to judge with some accuracy the news coverage, editorial content and topography of The Hatchet. If the issue of October 24th is a representative sample, and I am sure it is, then The Hatchet of 1944 is vastly superior to a great many of its earlier volumes. Being one of those everlasting (almost) night students, I read The Hatchet every week for eight years. The paper now does in four pages and five columns very nicely what we used to do in six pages and seven columns with considerable bumbling and padding.

There was only one disturbing note in the issue. The "Ten Years Ago—in the Hatchet" column made me feel my years, for some of the men it mentioned were attending classes, and skipping them, the same years I was!

I shall look forward to reading sometime that this year's staff duplicated last year's record. Best wishes.

Ten Years Ago —In the Hatchet

• MORE THAN 50 DELEGATES and faculty advisers from 35 nearby high schools attended the second annual convention for high school journalists. The conference, which was held on November 23 and 24, had as its feature speakers Eugene MacLean, general manager of the Washington Post, and Nelson Poynter, business manager of the News.

Kappa Alpha was awarded the Interfraternity Council scholarship cup for 1933-1934. Chi Omega led all sororities in scholarship standing for the two years 1932-1934.

Jim Haley was the new editor for the "Rag" for 1934-1935 and Dick Murphy was advertising manager.

After three years of struggling to survive the Symphony Orchestra disbanded. Lack of interest and support caused its failure.

Dr. Dudley Willard, executive officer of the Sociology department was in serious condition at the University Hospital. The furnace at his home exploded and threw burning oil over his body.

Sigma Phi Epsilon was leading Section A of the interfraternity league and Sigma Nu and Kappa Alpha were dead locked for the lead of Section B.

Inside Track On . . .

Edith Norris

• CAN YOU IMAGINE A GOOD LOOKING GIRL who likes math—who not only likes math, but would like to make this much-feared and detested subject her life work? This week's INSIDE TRACK presents this female phenomenon — dark-haired, infinitely sweet Dedi (Edith) Norris.

Dedi, in this her senior year, is Secretary of Delta Zeta, and being the quiet, efficient type, is also Acting Secretary of Cue and Curtian. She sings with the Glee Club, and enjoys the position of Publicity Director of the Student Council. Her complete control of this activity of hers is evidenced by the way she always provides the posters for all school functions. Besides these major activities she also is a member of the French Club and Alpha Lambda Delta.

Last year Dedi carried all the above and Treasurer of Women's Activities Building Drive and also did work with the Student Nurses' Unit.

Like most of the students at the University, Dedi likes to read but seldom can find the time to enjoy this pastime. The Norrises hail from West Virginia hills. As long as she can't stay here for the rest of her life, she'd like to return to "West Virginia" and do something with her math.

Full House Attend First Night Club

Students Applaud Variety of Talent In Floor Show

BEFORE A "sold-out" house the first Buff 'n Blue of the semester presented an "all-new talent" student show in a "dry nite club" atmosphere last Friday night in the Student Club.

The "mysterious" floor show so long a secret of the co-directors Mary Jane Whittlesey and Joe Vi-vari was emceed by Gene Horres. Secluded couples sat under the spell of the throaty notes of Marian Alvord in "Temptation." Gay and airy tones waked the audience from flirtatious dreams as Bobbie Ames and Jean Koppalky in plaid shirts and knee pants sang Danny Kayes' arrangement of "Faerie Pipers."

A sparkling, whirling figure flashed under the spotlight tapping merrily to a medley of old New York tunes. Those flowing red tresses belonged to none other than Jean Gill.

Recorded music of "Straighten Up and Fly Right" brought Kitty Bauer, Helen Zott, and Jennie Allen before the "mike" in a pantomimic imitation of the Andrews Sisters. Coeds swooned and swains turned green with envy when Bob Peterson did a takeoff of Frank Sinatra with "All or Nothing at All."

Harry Traub added side-splitting moments with a presentation of Lou Holtz' anecdotes of London at the Ballet. To put the dancers back into that ole sentimental mood before the orchestra again swung out, Marine Corporal Grace Murphy and Gene Horres, master of ceremonies, "duoed" "Make-Believe" from Showboat.

That irresistible "mike" later in the evening drew "Rusty" Schiff to torch sing "Is You Is or Is You Ain't My Baby."

Waiters in white glided swiftly and smoothly among the guests with clinking glasses of refreshing "cokes."

Judges Announced For Annual Show In Student Club

JUDGES HAVE been selected for the forthcoming annual Goat Show and will include Christopher B. Garnett, dean of Junior College; Virginia Kirkbride, Director of Personnel Guidance, and tentatively, Floyd Sparks, Director of Cue 'n' Curtain. They will award a loving cup to the group presenting the best skit. This cup has been retained by Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority for the past three years. Last year's skit by Kappa was entitled "On the Beam" and was a "howl" of listening in on radio programs.

The Goat Show, which will be held on Wednesday, December 13, at 8:30 in the Student Club, is under the direction of Agnes Smith, vice-president of Pan Hellenic Council, and Nora Dubin, chairman of Junior Pan Hellenic.

Ten, 10-minute skits will be given by the various sororities on campus. They will be headed by a master-of-ceremonies, whose name has not yet been announced.

Price of admission to the performance will be a 10- or 25-cent war stamp to be purchased at the door of the Student Club.

In addition Senor Francisco Cuspedes, prominent Pan-American associated with the Pan-American Union will speak on "The People and Culture of Latin America." Following the more educational part of the program there will be dancing and refreshments. Hockey Steals Show At Hood College

Buff 'n Blue Teams Nip Opponents

Tie in Ping Pong;
Archery Team
Comes in Last

By ESTHER CROWELL
● BITING WINDS and frost didn't interfere with the celebration of Hood College's annual sports day held Saturday in Frederick, Md., for girls from Maryland University and the University.

A double defeat was dealt Hood's soccer teams by the University's Odd and Even teams. The Odds, in the first game, won to the tune of 2-0, with Dorothy Snyder the only scorer.

In the second game, one of the best played, the Evens walked off on the long end of a 10-2 score. Dorothy Snyder, playing both games, made one goal, Laura McNeese one, and Jean Harpster, a newcomer, made three.

Although the Even team held their own through most of the first hockey game, they were nipped by a score of 3-2. Maintaining a 2-2 tie, Jean Reed's team couldn't stop Hood's spectacular play in the final period. Both goals for the University were made by Anne Hirst.

However, the second hockey game reversed the picture. Led by Betty Lou Trowbridge, sole scorer, the Odd Team came up with a shutout, 1-0.

Since it was too cold for the tennis matches, the girls moved indoors for a round-robin of ping-pong. Competing for the University were Anne Hirst, Polly Bolian, and Mary Mann. Hood, Maryland and the University each won four games.

Female Robin Hoods of Maryland University and Hood College defeated the University by scores of 600, 261 and 231, respectively. The University's marksmen were Elizabeth Lewis, Ruth Ludolph, Lois Duvall and Yvonne McKay.

Hood College ended their sport fest with a dinner for the visiting universities in their main dining room.

Soccer Tourney Ends for Girls

● FINAL RESULTS of the inter-class soccer tournament were announced last week by the Women's Physical Education Department.

Winning three straight games, the Junior-Seniors took first place with the Freshman Blue team taking second on a record of two wins and one loss. The Sophomores placed third with one win, one loss and one tie, while the Freshman Buff team trailed the field with three losses and no wins.

From the final playoffs, Odd-Even squads were chosen and their game was played last Friday. Odd-Even teams were picked after the game.

Hockey Teams Cop

● IN THEIR annual games played with Trinity College Saturday, November 25, the University women's hockey teams emerged victorious. By a close score of 2 to 1 the Junior-Senior team nipped the Trinity upperclassmen, and the Sophs followed this victory by dealing out a 3 to 0 shutout to the Trinity sophs.

Informals Conquer Gallaudet

● BOUNCING BACK from last week's defeat by United Typewriters, the Informals swamped Gallaudet College last Saturday night at Uline Arena, 46-29. Sparked by Barry Kreisberg, their high-scoring center, the college boys built up a lead which was never seriously threatened after the second period.

With neither team gaining the advantage, the opening period was slow. The Informals drew first blood on a free throw. The fighting boys from the Florida Avenue school, however, soon tied the score. The score alternated between the teams, and at the end of the quarter the Informals were leading nine to seven.

The second period was more eventful, with the Florists sinking enough throws to insure their lead from ever being overtaken by their opponents.

The remainder of the game was merely a practice session for the Informals, who, substituting the second team, built up the lead and overcame all resistance of Gallaudet. High scorer was Barry Kreisberg, with twenty points, followed by Johnny Pollack's seven. High man for Gallaudet was Massey, with eight points, Samples and Holcomb coming in next with seven points each.

WAA Takes Girls

● NEW AND OLD members of the Women's Athletic Association attended the open board meeting which was held last Wednesday in Columbian House. The purpose of the meeting was to welcome new members and explain the functions of the association.

Reports were presented by the committee chairman and sports managers. The point system toward receiving school letters in the many activities open to girls at the University was also given. Swimming, fencing, golf, rifle and archery clubs are among the many activities open to anyone interested.

Frats Ban Hazing

● NATIONAL Interfraternity Conference held in New York City November 24-25 voted that all forms of hazing be abolished.

In placing the responsibility and enforcement upon the college officials of the 200 fraternity campuses, fraternity leaders hope that this will eliminate hazing of all forms, including paddling.

This resolution was proposed by George Starr Lasher, former national president of Theta Chi Fraternity. Action was prompted by violation of a local university ban upon paddling by University of Wisconsin chapter Theta Chi.

Sigs Take Top Honor On Grid

● THE INTRAMURAL Football League closed its season Sunday with a brace of games on the schedule. As pre-season dopesters had figured, the Sigma Chi fraternity aggregation walked off with top honors and will meet the Veterans' Club this Sunday for the championship.

The Vets played the only game of the day and earned the right to meet the Sigs for the title. Phi Alpha and S.A.E. ended in a tie for third place, while Phi Sigma Kappa and Kappa Alpha split honors for the bottom rung of the ladder.

Of the eight teams that started out in the league, there were six left when the final curtain went down. Mr. William J. Myers, director of Physical Education for Men, stated Sunday that the league had been a success.

TEAM	Won	Tied	Lost	Pct.
Sigma Chi	5	0	0	1.000
Veterans' Club	4	0	1	.800
S.A.E.	2	1	2	.500
Phi Alpha	2	1	2	.500
Phi Sig Kappa	0	0	5	.000
Kappa Alpha	0	0	5	.000

Wallach Stars As Veterans Gain Playoffs

● ALTHOUGH outplayed throughout most of the game, the Vet's Club eked out a 12-6 victory over a hard-fighting S.A.E. team to earn a berth in the Intramural Football Championship Playoff.

The Vets' first tally came after a passing duel which lasted almost the entire first half. Tom Haycock heaved a long pass to Barry Harrison, who was downed on the S.A.E. one-yard line. On a quick-opening play off tackle, Chuck Wallach went over for the score. The try for the point was no good.

S.A.E.'s score came after Jim Skiles recovered a fumble on the Veterans' five-yard stripe. On the next play, Hugh Logsdon, the frat team's ace halfback, ran around left end untouched to chalk up a touchdown for his team.

The Vets' winning score came soon after. Wallach returned Skiles' kick to the S.A.E. 20-yard marker and on the first play from scrimmage, he went around his right flank for the score.

Boxing Commences

● BOXING training started last week, with over 100 boys turning out for George "Doc" Lentz's boxing classes. Heavy training will start this week.

Out of the Basket

By MERVIN LEWIS

● COMES UP NEXT WEEK one of the best intramural championship games which the University has ever seen. It pits the hard-driving Vet's Club against the shifty Sigma Chi Fraternity team.

Plenty of bouquets can be thrown at the Vet's Club for the great showing it has made on the field this year. In its first year in intramural sports, the team has reached the championship game the hard way, playing more games than any other team in the league. In a league loaded down with forfeits every week, the Vet's always played, with no breathers from week to week.

Strength of the servicemen lies in its strong line, and a fair set of backs with good interference. The big man on the team is 210 pound Bill Van Sant, a fullback who runs through the enemy lines like "Doc" Blanchard of Army. The Vets' offense depends in great measure on whether Van Sant is on or off. If the Sigs can stop him they will be well on their way to winning the ball game. Still, the Vet's line of Ben Noble, Ken Brown, Doug Coon, and Barry Harrison is on tap in case Van Sant falters.

In back of this powerhouse line is a fleet set of backs, consisting of Chuck Wallach, Tommy Haycock, Kenny Broderick, and Van Sant. The other Vet back, Bud Friend, has been out for three or four games, but may be in shape for the title tilt. If he is, the Sigs will again find trouble, for Friend is the boy who spreads the enemy defenses wide open with long end runs, setting up the Vet's touchdowns through the middle.

On defense the Vets do lack strength. In Doug Coon and Bill Van Sant they have the two best line-backers in the league, but their pass defense is full of holes, as last week's game against Phi Alpha proved. On almost every play the Phi Alpha ends were behind the secondary. It was a lucky break for the Vets that they had no passer to reach the receivers.

Sigma Chi, on the other hand, depends on its deceptive quartet of halfbacks to win its games. In Barry Barnes, the shifty Duke University boy, and Lloyd Price, the Sigs have two backs who excel any two of the Vet's backs. Jim Charrier, who does most of the passing for the fraternity team is a distinct threat, but has not passed much this year, owing to the Sigs excessive use of running plays. Bill Browning, who beat the Vets with a fifty-yard touchdown run the last time these two teams played, is still an unknown quantity. The championship fray will give him ample chance to prove that his touchdown jaunt last time was no fluke.

Sig Chi's big play, and the one which usually makes the touchdowns, is their delayed off-tackle play. In the league games they used the play frequently, with Price always carrying the mail. But little Lloyd will be a marked man in the game, and the Sigs may find it more advantageous if they mix their runners.

The Sigs' secret weapon is embodied in the frail form of Frank Bowden. Bowden was badly injured in the last game against the Vets, and has been limping around school since then. Whether or not he is playing possum no one knows, but if he is, and he is really in shape, the Vets will be driven dizzy trying to stop the crazy little end from Arkansas. Easily the best pass receiver in the league, he is going to be the fifth man in the Vet's backfield every time the fraternity team gets the ball. Don't be surprised if the final score is Vets 14, Bowden 21.

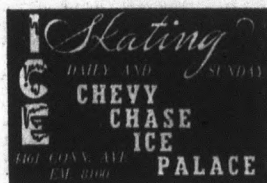

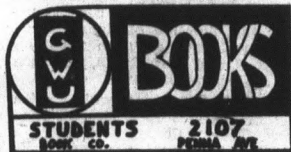

The Sigma Chi line, which is not overly great, does contain one tower of strength in Tackle Dick McCormack. If he can take care of Van Sant on those bull-like plunges of the Vet back, the Sigs can raise their stock a little more, but it is most likely that the Vets will stay away from McCormack's side of the line.

This game, like all the other grid contests this season, is creating interest comparable to the rivalry existing between G. W. and Georgetown in the good old days. This contest is also closely related to the Army-Navy game last Saturday. Then also, it was a case of a great line against a great set of backs. Whether the results will be the same, this Sunday will tell.

The way I see it is Vets 21, Sigma Chi 18.

Sigs Take Finale

● PHI ALPHA fraternity dropped its last game of the season to Sigma Chi by a forfeit score of 1-0, enabling Sigma Chi to hold its top position in the league with a clean record.

Characteristics and habits are essentially the same as those of previously known varieties, except response to hot swing music.

• FOR THOSE who wish to register as blood donors for the American Red Cross, a representative of GWAROS, will be in the Student Club each Wednesday from 5 to 6 p.m. Registrants can make appointments in the Student Club to go to the Blood Donor Center at 51 Louisiana Ave., N.W., and will then receive a postal from the Red Cross confirming their appointment.

For those interested in membership, further information may be obtained from Chairman Cam Lundberg who may be reached at Strong Hall.

Points for COGS will be credited to blood donors and recruiters. Thirty points will be given for each donation; and one to ten points, depending on the amount of work done, may be gained by recruiters.

Toy Drive Begins

• SPONSORED BY COGS and Mortar Board, the toy drive for the poor children's Christmas party will begin today, Mary Beth Sheppard, president of Mortar Board, revealed.

All toys should be brought to the office of Strong Hall by Tuesday, December 19.

Murder Play Opens Friday In Auditorium

• NIGHT MUST FALL, Cue and Curtin's second major production of the season, opens Friday, December 13, in the new Lisner Auditorium at 8:40 p.m.

The play, which is one of Emyln Williams' best works, thrilled Broadway audiences a few years back and has every indication of doing the same to a University audience. It is a murder story unhampered by the old technique of the "melter-drama" of the nineties, but has every bit as much suspense and drama.

According to latest reports from the Auditorium box office at 21st and H Streets, there is every indication of an early sell-out of all seats in the house. Should the sales be greater than the house capacity, it is hoped that the show will be held over to meet the demand. However, Director Floyd L. Sparks suggested that all desiring seats contact the box office at the earliest possible moment either in person or by phone.

Reservations will be held until 8:15 p.m., of the night of the show. Reservations may be made by calling NATIONAL 5055 between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m., during the week.

The Workshop plays which were originally scheduled for December 17, will be held on Sunday, January 7, at 4:00 p.m., in Recreation Hall according to Ann Ringwalt, Workshop Director.

Freshman Class Meets for First Time Since 1934

• WITH THE NEWLY-elected officers presiding, the freshman class held its first official meeting since 1934 last Wednesday at 1 p.m. in Government Room 101.

Need of unity between the officers and members was stressed by President Gene Spears. "This can only be accomplished," he stated, "when all freshmen attend these meetings."

The committee members and chairman were announced as follows: Social Committee, Harold Hogan, chairman; Jill Medby, Jim O'Brien, Mariana Dotson and Jane Moran; Publicity Committee, Mary Dixon, chairman; Joan Blissett, Gene Wisenbaker, Vickie Keimig, and Jackie Perry; Project Committee, Eddie Wadden, chairman; Bill Sheppard, Clara O'Neill, Isabel Grobmer and Beverly Monroe.

Lila Sylvester was named representative of the freshman class to the Student Council. Nancy Hank was selected as corresponding secretary of the class.

VIRGINIA NALLS

Individuals To Receive Cup, Keys

• TO THE GROUP amassing the greatest number of points under their point system, the Collegiate Organization for General Service will award a loving cup at the last Buff 'n' Blue dance of the year.

This resolution was voted upon and passed by the COGS General Board at their meeting last Thursday noon in Columbian House. It was also decided that keys will be awarded to each individual member who gains 200 points for COGS work done during this year.

The above-mentioned cup will be a rotating trophy, unless the same group wins three times in succession. In that case, the three-time winners will be permanent holders of that prize.

In addition to the COGS point system as recently set up, one point per hour will be given for any war work outside the COGS-sponsored activities.

Organization representatives are to hand in a report on the last Tuesday of each month showing their group's work for that period. These reports should be dropped in the Student Council Mail Box in the Student Club or mailed to Virginia Nalls, 322 Fourteenth Street, S.E.

The next COGS meeting will be January 2, the first Tuesday of the month, at 8 p.m., Columbian House.

Council Promises Support Favoring Petition Request

Student Committee to Present Plan Asking President Marvin's Consent To Revive Inter-Collegiate Athletics

By DON A. BALFOUR
Board of Editors

• CLOSE ON THE HEELS of the formation of a student committee aimed at bringing back Inter-Collegiate Athletics to the University, the Student Council passed a resolution favoring such a move, at its regular meeting last Thursday afternoon. The resolution came as the culmination of efforts by various students and organizations to form a representative group whose intent it was to petition President Marvin this week.

The committee, headed by Mervin Lewis, manager of the University "Informals" basketball team, and including representatives from Veetrans Club; Independents and Informals; Interfraternity Council; Hatchet; Student Life Committee; Panhellenic Council, and Student Council.

Backed by student approval, the representatives will attempt to obtain an interview with the President of the University, in order to present their case and a petition of almost 2,000 names. Though completely unpublicized, the petition has been circulated around school since the beginning of this semester.

Shortly after the outbreak of the present war, the Board of Trustees of the University voted to discontinue all forms of Inter-Collegiate athletics for the duration. At that time, faced by the impending manpower shortage, travel restrictions, and the loss of revenue due to a declining enrollment, the Trustees deemed it wise to follow the lead of many of the major educational institutions of the nation and curtail athletics.

The move came at a time when the University's Basketball team had just won the Southern Conference Championship, and was faced with bleak prospects for the coming season due to the call of the draft boards. The football and baseball teams, though not as successful, were faced with the same peril.

But today, the student committee apparently feels that it is justified in its position. They point to the University "Informals," a student organized team playing under the sponsorship of a local florist, whose members are all full time students of the University required to maintain their scholastic standing. Available to coach a University team is "Otts" Zahn, former court star, who coached the last basketball team in its outstanding season.

Basing their arguments on the contention that both a team and a coach are available, that many of the other schools in the nation are returning to Inter-Collegiate competition, and speaking for a majority of the student body of the University they hope to be able to convince the President and through him the Board of Trustees that this is the proper time to bring back sports.

Big Sisters Hold Registration For Bandage Rolling

• REGISTRATION for bandage rolling will be held in Strong Hall's living room at 12 p.m., Wednesday. Bertie Stamm, chairman of Big Sisters said bandage rolling would begin at Walsh House, 2020 Massachusetts Avenue, Thursday and Friday from 2 to 5 p.m.

Students unable to attend on these days can, with permission, register for any convenient hours between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

All bandage rollers must wear the regulation white headgear and wash dress furnished by each individual. In addition, the students may not wear jewelry or fingernail polish while rolling the gauze squares.

Paper Drive Starts

"A PAPER A DAY" will be the slogan of the paper salvage drive which will start tomorrow under the sponsorship of Alpha Delta Pi's and COGS.

Students are requested to bring all old papers, and magazines to the box in the center of the Student Clubs any time after Wednesday to help in this war drive.

Law Review Features Stories On Patent Cases

• IN THE DECEMBER issue of the University Law Review, which will be out around December 18, there will be two leading articles.

Written by John L. O'Brien, general counsel of War Production Board, and Manly Fleischmann, formerly assistant general counsel, the first is entitled "The War Production Board Administration Policies and Procedures."

Lawrence A. Wood, an authority on Patent Law, will review the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Mercoide cases for the second article.

The Law Review is published quarterly by staff of students headed by Betty Hartung, with Professor S. Chesterfield Oppenheim, faculty editor.

Alumni Antics

• LAST WEEK, OUT of the goodness of our hearts and a slightly selfish interest in our own circulation, we approached the Alumni Secretary and proposed that copies of the Hatchet be sent to every alumnus, every week, in a special Alumni Edition.

The question was raised as to whether the same mailing rate would apply, and we weren't sure, but we asked "If the mailing rate is the same . . . would the Alumni Office like to send out copies of the paper?"

The reply we received was astounding. Lester Smith, the Alumni secretary of this university, in plain, everyday, simple English stated, "I don't want the Alumni of this University to read the Hatchet." Pressed on further he added, "I don't want the Alumni to read anything in which I have nothing to say about what is to be printed."

Of all the unmitigated gall and high handed practices we have ever heard about, this tops them all.

Stories of the influence Alumni wield in collegiate affairs throughout the nation are widespread. Almost every newspaper has carried stories of famous football coaches who have felt the axe wielded by influential alumni. A great many privately endowed colleges and universities in this country owe their size, power, influence, and sometime their very life to the financial support of their alumni.

Yet our alumni are greatly inactive. Except for a general election at Christmas time, and two representatives on the Board of Trustees, we can point to little that the Alumni, either collectively or individually are doing. We are not overlooking the disproportionate benefits received from Hattie Strong or Abram Lisner. They are exceptions, and mark outstanding examples of spirit and ties that do not appear to belong to the rest of our old grads.

The fault can be placed squarely on the policy of the Alumni Secretary. His tenure of office has been long, his service praiseworthy, but his policies poor.

So long as the Alumni receive literature that has had his personal censorship, so long as they are neither informed of or encouraged to take part in controversial matters, they will remain just as they are . . . an interested, inactive group, whose sole overt act is to hold occasional meetings, elections, and get-togethers for social purposes.

Isn't it plausible that by awakening interest in the student body, through the student newspaper, it might also be possible to shake a few dollars loose and build up the Endowment fund?

Or could it be possible that nobody wants the Alumni to have much of a say in what goes on around here?

Cleaned Up

• AT THE BEGINNING of this semester we began a campaign to clean up the local beaneries, joints, food shops and pharmacies around campus. We can now report that the District Health Department has acted, and we have been assured of their complete cooperation.

As previously reported, Bassins beer parlor suffered a fine, and is even now in the process of redecorating. Quigleys Pharmacy was inspected and given a clean bill of health. The remaining food shops in and around the University have also come under the watchful eye of the Health Departments G-Men and came through with flying colors.

Apparently, some time between our first editorial and the Inspectors visit, a lot of scrubbing brushes and elbow grease were used. The results are apparent even to the casual observer.

Once again the principles of Caveat Emptor have tangled with the police power of the state and have come off second best.

Attention, Freshmen!

• FOR THE FIRST TIME in ten years the freshmen have been organized as a class. At its first meeting, approximately thirty members including the officers were present.

For the next four years it will be the Class of '48 that will carry on the traditions of the University. This should be realized by more than the handful of students who fortunately have captured some of the school spirit. It isn't the buildings which make a college great, but the students themselves. Viewing the lack of interest and cooperation among the members of the freshman class, with only three-tenths percent of the class present at a meeting and only a few more appearing for the Cherry Tree picture, it is natural that we should be worried about who is going to carry on after us.

The officers seem to be willing to work but what has happened to the rest of the freshmen?

Ten Years Ago —In the Hatchet

• GRADUATE SAM P. CROWLEY, an F. B. I. agent, was killed in line of duty during a gun battle with George "Baby-Face" Nelson. Dr. Dudley W. Willard, professor of Sociology, died following an accident at his home in which he received fatal burns.

Cue and Curtain presented its first production, "The Torchbearers," under the direction of Anton Hardt.

Jim Pixlee's boys took West Virginia 10-7 on "Hank" Deming's field goal. North Dakota upset the Colonials 7-0, in a game which the Colonials expected to win easily. The Pixleesmen wound up their season with a win over Oklahoma, 3-0, on another of Deming's field goals. The team ended the season with six wins, one tie, and three losses, the best record of any University team.

Phi Sig beat Sigma Nu 20 to 18 for the Greek Basketball crown.

CAMPUS CARAVAN

Many students at Auburn University yelled for an honor system in quizzes. At most schools using this system, the profs have the honor and the students have the system.

At a Naval training center a pharmacist's mate was preparing to fingerprint a recruit.
"Wash your hands," he instructed.
"Both of them?" queried the sailor-to-be.
The pharmacist's mate hesitated. "No," he said grimly; "just one. I want to see how you do it."

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Having read with interest your comments regarding the university fee several issues ago, I thought you might be interested in a recent experience of mine.

As you know, payment of the university fee entitles students to certain medical benefits which are listed in detail in the catalogue. The part with which I am concerned states that students are entitled to three visits to certain doctors in any one illness.

Recently I had trouble with my eyes, and, noticing that one of the doctors listed on the activities card had (Eye) written after his name, I decided to make an appointment with him. I did this under the impression that this was covered by the university fee, and that G.W. would take care of the bill.

When I called, the girl asked me where I got the doctor's name, and I told her. She then asked if I went to the university, and when I replied that I did, she said that that made a difference.

When I went to the doctor's office the girl there asked for the number on my activities card and the division of the university attended. I assumed that this was for the school records, still thinking they took care of the financial end, and was told nothing to the contrary.

Several weeks later I was greatly surprised to receive a bill for $10 from the doctor. Thinking that there must be some mistake I called his office the next morning, only to be informed that they were so sorry but they forgot to tell me that the university doesn't pay for examinations for glasses, which I had; but that students are charged $10, his lowest fee. She said that if I had had treatments of any kind G.W. would pay the bill but otherwise they didn't, that they always told students that but somehow forgot to tell me.

What I would like to know is how was I supposed to know what was wrong before going to the doctor? That was what I went there to find out—that's his business, not mine. Such a discrimination is obviously unfair to students.

I also inquired at the university about this matter and was told the same thing. The only answer I have been able to get as to why they do this is that so many people have something wrong with their eyes! That seems to indicate that the university doesn't want to give you something you're paying for.

I believe the university should make itself clear about the matter in the catalogue so that other people won't be similarly misled, and until it does so it has promised to foot the bill.

Puzzled Frosh.

Inside Track On . . .

Bertie Stamm

• LIVELY AND QUICK-WITTED inmate of Strong Hall Room 505, Bertie loves sweet swing and at present favors "I Walk Alone." The gal enjoys dancing, says steaks are her favorite food (and who disagrees?), and picks Navy as her favorite football team.

Kappa Kappa Gamma a now numbers among its actives, this one who was the first chairman of "Big Sisters" in 1943, and participated in the orientation program and campus tour in which "Big Sis" assisted.

Bertie is majoring in Political Science in the International Field, and lacks only two hours to finish her junior year. Since February, 1943, she has worked as student assistant to Robert F. Campbell, Associate in American History. Of interest is the fact that her ambition is to go to Russia and "work for the government spreading internationalism." She has, by the way, studied Russian.

Pet gripe of the little lady is Britain's attitude towards Greece and Italy, and the U.S. lack of firm foreign policy. From all appearances, she is something of a brain trust and one finds her a very interesting conversationalist.

Since coming to the University in the summer of 1943 from William and Mary, Bertie has become a member of Phi Pi Epsilon, women's foreign service professional society, has worked as advertising manager of THE HATCHET, and has joined the International Society here.

Bertie's Christmas plans center around the return of her Navy man, Ken Beckman, from shakedown cruise. Her home is in Baltimore and Bertie often braves the mobs between here and there.

"Barnaby" is her favorite comic strip. The grey-eyed lass chooses "Reflection" perfume, merely for the name. Bertie would like to spend some time just "playing," but now her spare time is spent looking for a package of Luckies.

Theatrical Specialist To Lecture

Slides of Moscow Art Theater Will Climax Discussion

SAM PEARCE, the well-known New York commentator on the theatre, will lecture on Anton Chekhov's great play "The Cherry Orchard" at Cue and Curtain meeting in Lisner A on Thursday at 7:30 p. m. Anyone interested may attend the meeting. This comedy will run at the National Theatre beginning December 18.

Since his service in the Army, this will be Mr. Pearce's first lecture. It deals not only with the play itself, but with the founding and history of two of the great theatres of the modern world, the Moscow Art Theatre, first producers of "The Cherry Orchard"; and Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory Theatre in New York City. Factors that lead to the development of the modern theatre and modern acting will be pointed out.

Illustrating his lecture with 60 lantern slides in full, Mr. Pearce will use pictures ranging from portraits of the founders of the Moscow Art Theatre and scenes from the Moscow Art Theatre productions of the Chekhov plays to the production of the same plays by Eva Le Gallienne and current production scenes. Music, opera, and the Russian ballet's influence on America will also be discussed.

Mr. Pearce, a Yale graduate, class '31, specialized there in theatricals and studied under Professor George Pierce Baker. Having begun his career with Ethel Barrymore, Maurice Evans and Eva Le Gallienne, he has seen the professional theatre from all angles. He has designed settings and has acted as stage manager for Maude Adams.

Chi Omega Wins Veterans' Cup ADPi, Pi Phi Are Runners-up; First Anniversary Huge Success

The Girl the Boys Came Home To

Leader Charlie Spivak presents cup to Veterans' choice, Jane Moran.

Boys Coming Back Choose Redhead As Ideal Beauty

REDHEADED JANE MORAN, Chi Omega, was chosen "The Girl the Boys Came Back To" before approximately six hundred students at the Veterans Club's First Anniversary Ball last Saturday night at the Willard Hotel.

Charlie Spivak, of trumpet fame, made the presentation of a bouquet of red American Beauty roses and a loving cup to the winner. Second and third place winners were Sara Bohannon, Alpha Delta Pi, and Mera Riddell, Pi Beta Phi, who were given bouquets of white and yellow roses, respectively.

Judges of these beauties were unmarried ex-service men who have served overseas. A service man at the dance was requested to volunteer to draw five names from a hat immediately before the contestants entered. The girls walked under spotlight across the ballroom while Stan Brown's orchestra played "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody." The choices were determined by veterans Robert Eastman, Norman Friend, Gil Helring, Pat O'Rourke, and Joseph Holtzman.

The large and small ballrooms on the Willard Roof were combined into a cabaret style ballroom. Crystal chandeliers and round tables and white-coated waiters lent a pre-war glow. The stage was brilliantly decorated with flags from the United Nations. The dance closed to the strains of the Star Spangled Banner.

Sigs, Vets Place 8 On All-Star Mural Team

First All-U Team In IM History

SAE, Phi Alpha, KA Each Place One On "Dream Team"

By MERVIN LEWIS

FOR THE FIRST time in the history of the University, an all-star University Intramural team was chosen Saturday. Captains of each team entered in the Intramural league and both league officials, Barry Kreisberg and Si Wagman, cast their ballots for the men to be placed on the all-league team.

Three of the eleven choices for the "dream team" were unanimous selections: Lloyd Price, Sigma Chi's great punter and speed boy; Ben Noble, the Veterans Club's tower of strength; and Dick McCormack, the Sigma Chi guard who dominated line play in the lead this year.

Sigma Chi and the Veteran Club dominated the first string squad. The Sigs placed five men on the team, followed by the Vets, from whom three players were selected. Phi Alpha, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Kappa Alpha each contributed one man to round out the team.

Any team with such backs as Van Sant, Barnes, Logsdan, and Price would be a standout team against any competition. Van Sant was undoubtedly the best plunging back in play this year. His off-tackl slants were beautiful things to behold. He is a big bruising back who can make his own holes in the line and then worm his way through for long gains.

Berry Barnes of Sigma Chi is the boy who would take over when the Vets' back tires. Barnes, in addition to being an end run specialist, is one of the outstanding passers of the year. His pitching to his ends and to Lloyd Price was about the greatest tossing ever seen in Intramural League play. Hugh Logsdan of the S. A. E. plays in the style of Bill Van Sant, and is one of the better scat-backs of the year. Lloyd Price of Sigma Chi was "the" kicker. His kicking was responsible for keeping the Sigs. opponents deep in their own territory all year.

The All-Star line stacks up rather favorably with the backfield. The best pass receivers in the league, Frank Bowden of the Sigs and Jim Noonan of Kappa Alpha, are at the ends, and would give their opponents plenty of trouble in any game as the fifth and sixth men in the enemy backfield.

At center is Doug Coon of the Vets Club, the best line-backer in the game. The tackles are Ben Noble of the Vets and Leon Horowitz of Phi Alpha. At the guard slots are Dick McCormack and Pat O'Rourke, both of Sigma Chi. All four of these boys played great ball and were in on almost every play their teams made.

The complete roster of the team are:

L. E., Frank Bowden, Sigma Chi; L. T., Ben Noble, Veterans Club; L. G., Dick McCormack, Sigma Chi; C., Doug Coon, Veterans Club; R. G., Pat O'Rourke, Sigma Chi; R. T., Leon Horowitz, Phi Alpha; R. E., Jim Noonan, Kappa Alpha; Q. B., Lloyd Price, Sigma Chi; L. H., Hugh Logsdan, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; R. H., Berry Barnes, Sigma Chi; F. B., Bill Van Sant; Veterans Club.

Craig Leaves

REGRETS WERE expressed by the Women's Physical Education Department last week at the loss of Mrs. Camille Craig from its staff. Mrs. Craig is leaving the University for California where she will join her husband, recently returned from overseas.

Mrs. Craig, a graduate of the University, class of 1942, has been teaching physical education for a year and a half. She hopes to return to Washington after the war. No announcement has yet been made to a replacement for Mrs. Craig.

Lentz Set For Great Ring Year

APPROXIMATELY A hundred and forty would-be pugilists have reported for training for the Intramural Boxing Tournament. The tournament started about two months earlier than last year, is under the direction of George "Doc" Lentz of the Physical Education Department. Doc Lentz, with high hopes for a successful season, has prophesied a better tournament than that of last year.

Although the majority of the aspirants are inexperienced, among those returning from last year's tournament are Artie Cohen, Dick Roberts, Leon Horowitz, and Dave Leonarduzzi.

In addition to sparring and individual coaching, the entrants will be getting workouts on the light and heavy punching bags. From all reports, there should be some very keen competition before the finals roll around.

The tournament will include all classes, ranging from the diminutive 105 pounders to the bulky "unlimiteds." The awards will be the same as last year, with golden gloves for the winners, and silver gloves for the runners up.

Entries are still open and students interested in competing should sign up with Lentz or Intramural Director William Myers immediately in order to gain benefits of the training.

All students including those who have entered in previous school tournaments are eligible if they are amateur boxers and have not boxed in golden gloves tournaments.

Rifle Club Shoots

GIRLS ARE STILL welcome to join the Rifle Club which shoots every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 12 to 2 p. m., and Tuesday and Thursday from 4 to 6 p. m., in the basement of Corcoran Hall.

The Club is open to beginners and is coached by Mrs. Dean, who for many years has studied the care and use of various types of firearms.

Quintets to Form

APPLICATIONS for freshman manager of the basketball activity are now being accepted. Betty June Karie, president of WAA, announced last week.

At the close of the basketball season next March, teams chosen from the University will compete with Hood College, Maryland University, and American University.

Title Tilt Ends In Deadlock

PLAYING IN A SEA OF MUD, The Veterans Club held the Sigma Chi Fraternity to a scoreless tie for the University Intramural Grid Championship last Saturday at the Polo Grounds.

Outcharged completely by a fighting Sigma Chi line, the Vets found themselves constantly bottled up in their own territory. But the Sigs were unable to hit pay dirt inside the twenty yard line, as the out-fought Vet forward line rose up to stop them every time the Sigs got close to home.

The first half was a passing duel highlighted by several interceptions by both teams, though neither team took advantage of these opportunities. The first scoring threat of the game came when Bowden recovered a fumble by the Vets on their ten yard line.

After two plays which resulted in no gain, Haycock intercepted a pass intended for Price on the Vets goal line and ran it back to his own forty yard line.

In the third quarter there was a punting duel, one of the best of the season, between Wallace of Vets and Price of Sigs. A twenty yard toss by Barnes to Price in the fourth quarter resulted in the only first down of the game.

Although the Sigs tried to cross the Vet's goal line, they were stopped cold. When the final gun went off, both teams were battling for a scoring opening at mid-field.

As yet, the Physical Education Department has made no statement as to whether there will be another game to pick the Intramural Champions.

Horse Show Honors Taken By Buxbaum

PHYLLIS BUXBAUM was judged first among forty-five women who participated in the University horse show held last Wednesday from 4-6 p. m. at Potomac Stables. The show culminated over two months of riding under the instruction of Mrs. H. Trendley Dean.

Beginning riders were asked to display their efficiency in handling their horse at a walk and trot. Dorothy Stubblefield was the winner of this group, with Dorothy Baines second and Marilyn Blank-on third.

In the advanced class, judged on a walk, trot, gallop, and on simple techniques in schooling horses, Phyllis Buxbaum was awarded first place with Elaine Conroy second and Frances Cogswell third.

Phyllis Buxbaum took first place in the jumping competition while Peggy Jackson took second place and Eleanor Erickson third.

Three riders were selected from the two beginning and two advanced groups; the chosen six from each class "rode it off" for first, second and third places.

Colonials to Remember . . .

By JERRY FELD

SINCE 1942, whenever the word "basketball" is mentioned, everyone immediately thinks of "Mad" Matt Zunic. Though today there is much legend surrounding his name, there is a lot of firm ground for the beliefs that have grown up about his days of glory. Zunic was Mr. Basketball here at the University. Not only does he rank among the top all-time high scorers of the Southern Conference, but he holds both the University and District of Columbia all-time high scoring records.

Zunic showed no sparks of brilliance in his high school days, being "just a member of the squad." He was brought from New Kensington, Pennsylvania, by Bill Rhinehart. Though he played freshman ball here at the University, he didn't set the world on fire. He was good and showed promise, but that's all.

It was in his sophomore year when he joined the varsity team that he showed something of the great ability which was to mark his later career. In his sophomore year, he sank 150 points and went on in his junior year to break the University record with 243 markers. During his last season he chalked up 258 tallies to break his own record and set a new varsity total record of 651 points. His 258 points put him in the number seven spot of high scorers in the Southern Conference for that year.

Zunic was a ball of fire. His all-around aggressiveness and general fight whenever he was on the court soon pre-fixed the "Mad" into his name. Always fast and rangy, Bill Reinhardt showed him how to use his six-foot-four inches to the best advantage in getting the ball off the backboard. Offensively, his ability can be summed up by calling him a "ball-hawk" but not a ball hog.

At present, Zunic is in the Navy as an officer under Commander Tom Hamilton's rehabilitation program. At the Norfolk Navy Training Base where he was stationed, he played for the post team, and just as in the past, led the Navy team with the same enthusiasm and brilliance with which he led Colonial basketball teams to so many well-remembered victories.

Southern Conference Will Return to Old Requirements

THE SOUTHERN conference will return to prewar eligibility rules which governed conference teams in the past, starting with the 1945-46 football season. The regulations will be returned gradually, to make it easier on teams entered in the conference.

Dr. H. A. Fisher, North Carolina State College, member of the executive committee, announced certain basic changes which would be made, at the annual Southern Conference meeting held in Greensboro, N. C. last Saturday night.

The basic changes are:
1) No civilian student transfers within or without the conference.
2) Servicemen will be allowed to participate in conference athletics.
3) Transfers, who are now enrolled in school, may retain their eligibility with these colleges; or if they were transfers from a college which discontinued a varsity sport, they may return to that college and regain their eligibility.
4) Scholastic requirements will return to those which existed in the pre-August 1943 rating. Dr. Fisher said that the meeting with the executive committee of the Southeastern Conference, held last month in Knoxville, Tennessee, had been primarily to discuss these matters.

Dr. Fisher hopes for another joint meeting in the near future.

Servicemen took up a large part of the discussion held at the Southern Conference meeting. The Conference decided to stick to its ruling that the time which a student spends in the service shall not be counted on his five years of eligibility.

This will mean that many of the University athletes, who were in their freshmen or sophomore years at the University when they were enrolled in Army and Navy training programs at other schools, will be able to play two more years of varsity athletics when they are discharged from the armed forces.
